"When my children were young I accidentally made an investment in their future.

Every night, we would share a couple of bedtime stories. Of course, I didn't see it as an investment - I loved it! And so did they. This is clear from the way we carried on reading stories together long after they could both read fluently for themselves. We were simply reading for pleasure."

“Stories not only take others out of the here and now, but when I’m writing them I’m also on the wonderful adventures with my characters too, so it’s never dull or boring in my head!”

At times he thought he could clearly see the trail that Snufkin had made on the sodden ground. The tracks skipped and danced here and there, and were difficult to follow. On occasion they took great leaps and even crossed paths. "He must have been feeling quite happy," thought Moomintroll. "I believe that right here he has even done a somersault."

Guess Who...

Barbie is starring as Clara in her own version of the classic Nutcracker ballet. She receives a splendid nutcracker as a gift from her favourite aunt. But then, one evening, she wakes up to find that the Nutcracker has come to life and is battling against the sinister Mouse King. After the Mouse King's spell shrinks Clara, she and the Nutcracker set out on a spectacular adventure to find the Sugarplum Princess, who has the power to undo the evil spell.

The Nutcracker is one of the best-loved ballets of all time and, in this special adaptation, Barbie brings her own special magic to this timeless and enchanting story.

"So I've got to find a mountain that nobody's ever seen. And work out the answer to a riddle that nobody's ever solved. And kill a bear that nobody can fight."

Renn sucked in her breath. "You've got to try." "
